How do I prevent Pneumonia?

Pneumonia can be prevented by getting the Pneumonia (Pneumococcal) shot, washing your hands regularly and covering your cough. The most effective way is to get the Pneumonia shot.

Who should get the Pneumonia shot?

- Adults age 65 or older.
- Anyone who has a weakened immune system.
- Anyone who has a chronic health condition such as diabetes, heart disease, asthma, kidney disease or cancer.

When and How often should i get the Pneumonia shot?

Unlike the flu shot, most people only need one to two Pneumonia shots in their lifetime. It is suggested that anyone 65 or older get a Pneumonia shot even if they received one earlier in life.

The Pneumonia shot can be given any time of year, so ask your doctor if you need a Pneumonia shot.
